Financial Aid Update
July if finally here, we made it. July marks a milestone in our yearly lives; when we think of July, we think of the holiday season. We think the holidays will be here soon or sooner then we want. But July also marks another important part of our lives; the beginning of a new Financial Aid year. To mention the importance of financial aid is an understatement, paying for your educational costs, assisting with your living expenses, and all necessary steps on your educational path. If you haven’t completed it already, makes sure that you complete the FAFSA. Students can get help information from http://www.taylorcollege.edu/finaid/. Students are invited to attend the FREE Financial Aid Workshop on July 27th to receive assistance in applying for aid or Q&A. Call and register to attend the workshop at either 10:00am or 3:00pm.

Join: “Team Taylor” and walk on October 8, 2011 or donate and help us reach our goal. Just follow the link above.
